An Archaeologist finds out about people who lived long ago by studying the things they left behind.

Artefacts are things made by people who lived long ago

The background of the slide is a solid dark brown color with a pattern of stylized, overlapping autumn leaves in various shades of brown and gold. The leaves are scattered across the entire area, creating a textured, seasonal feel.

They find places to work by going to ruins where people once lived or by looking at aerial photographs.

When they have found a place to work they start to dig or excavate.

The background of the slide is a solid dark brown color with a pattern of lighter brown, semi-transparent autumn leaves scattered across it. The leaves have detailed vein structures and are in various orientations, creating a textured, seasonal feel.

First they make a plan of the place they are going to dig so as to record where everything is found.

They dig carefully so they don't break anything.

They use trowels and brushes.
